To Whom It May Concern,

We are writing to recommend Harshal Patil, who worked with us at Kesowa as a frontend engineer and later progressed into a fullstack role. Throughout their time with us, Harshal contributed meaningfully across both product and engineering efforts—most notably on our geospatial drone intelligence platform and, later, on a geospatial fintech peer-to-peer application.

From a technical standpoint, Harshal worked primarily with the MERN stack, React Native, and various modern web technologies. Their code was reliable, their problem-solving thoughtful, and they showed consistent growth across the full stack. They approached new tasks with a sense of curiosity and commitment, and adapted readily to the fast-moving nature of startup work.

Beyond their technical contributions, Harshal conducted themselves with professionalism and maturity. They were punctual, communicative, and cooperative—easy to work with, and quick to support team goals. Their interest in the company's direction and readiness to take on new responsibilities made them a valued member of the team.

We are confident Harshal will continue to develop as a well-rounded engineer and make a positive contribution wherever they go. Please don't hesitate to reach out if you require any further details.

Yours sincerely,
Abhemanyu Sarin
